A Severe Sickness Leaves The Kidneys Weak VETERAN LE

After recovering from a severe spell of sickness some time ago, I was all run down and suffering from poor blood. I would have pains in my back and hips and my kidneys bothered me all the time. I started taking Swamp-Root upon the recommendation of a friend, and found it was just what I needed. My blood became all right, and after taking a few bottles I was surprised at the effect it had on my kidneys. They were entirely curred, and I have much to be thankful for that your great remedy did for me.

Yours very truly,

Committee Makes Points Clear in Reference to Children at City Home.

Explanation of two points in the re-port on the City Jail and Almahouse, recently published, is made by the vis-iting committee of the State Board of Charities and Corrections. It is as tion that the report of the committee appointed by the State Board of Chari-ties and Corrections to inspect the City Almshouse has been misunder-steed in the committee of the committee of the committee of the state of the committee of the com ties and Corrections to inspect the City Almshouse has been misunderstood in two particulars by a few readers, and fearing the language of the report may have been misleading, we desire to state more explicitly the facts regarding these two items.

1. The number of children born in the City Hospital indicates merely the number of indigent women who are admitted to the maternity ward. The comment was intended to call attention to the fact that the children are thrown on the community to support because the mothers find it easier to give them away than to provide for them. The intention was to emphasize the need of some supervision of these women by benevolent organizations and individuals, rather than the indiscriminate adoption of the children, leaving the mothers free to follow their evil ways. Perhaps any misapprehension would have been prevented by explaining that the city provides both an almshouse and free hospital—separate institutions—under one superintendent and in one building. The comment on the number of births applies to the hospital only.

In Not Record.

Is Not Record.

2. The number of births of feeble-minded children, and the number of such children now living is the record of statistics collected from the inmates of the City Home, but is not a record of conditions there. The number of women of feeble mind then domiciled at the City Home supplied the material from which the information was gathered, but it was not intended to convey the impression that these children, or any of them, had ever been inmates of the City Home, nor do we think the language used justifies any such conclusion.

We gladly make this explanation, as such conclusion.

We gladly make this explanation as we desire to be recognized merely as impartial investigators, stating gooditions simply as we found them, and in no sense as critics or fault-finders.

Governor Asks People of Virginia to Lessen Risk by Concerted Action.

For the purpose of arousing public interest and co-operation in the lessening of losses by fire, Governor Mann yesterday issued a proclamation setting apart October 2 as "Fire Prevention Day." On that day the people of Virginia are urged to remove combustible waste, inspect heating plants, chimneys and electric lighting fixtures and to provide for apparatus for putting out fires. In addition, it is asked that fire escapes in public buildings be looked after and that fix drills be held in every school house. In connection with his argument. Governor Mann sets forth the startling fact, on the authority of the State Insurance Commissioner, that of the 1,578 fires in Virginia last year, 974 were due to the neglect of reasonable and simple precautions.
